

Content

Prelude

- 8 Foreword
Hollywood, the American Dream—
A Jewish Invention!
Danielle Spera
- 10 BIGGER THAN LIFE
100 Years of Hollywood—A Jewish Experience
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 22 Hollywood and the Birth
of Audiovisual America
Leon Botstein
- 30 Hollywood Billboards in Vienna:
Movie Posters, Joseph Gregor,
and the Film Archive
Christian Maryška

100 Years of Hollywood

- 1
- 36 Eastern Europe
Where Hollywood Isn't
Gabriele Kohlbauer-Fritz
- 2
- 42 Immigration and the New Media in 1900
From Garment Industry to Cinema
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 3
- 48 "Where the Other Picture Companies Are"
Finding and Inventing Hollywood
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 4
- 56 Stars, or the Strict Code of the Movie Paradise
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 5
- 62 The Red Carpet Treatment
Movie Palace Dreams for the Masses
Julio Vera
- 6
- 68 Moving West
American and Other Hollywood Myths
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 7
- 74 The Jazz Singer
Talking Pictures and the Privatization of Religion
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 8
- 80 At Home in LA
A Temple, a Golf Course, and Anti-Semitism
Werner Hanak-Lettner
- 9
- 86 Comedians of Chaos
The Marx Brothers and Jewish Humor
Rainer M. Köppl

|                                                      |                                               |
|------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
| 10                                                   | 19                                            |
| 92 Italians, Irish, but No Jews                      | 148 From Blackface to "Superblackman"         |
| The Ethnic Gangster Hits the Movies                  | Afro-American Role Models in Hollywood        |
| Rachel Rubin                                         | Natalie Lettner                               |
| 11                                                   | 20                                            |
| 96 The Monster from the East                         | 156 Producing the Seventies                   |
| Horror Movies from Hollywood's Golden Era            | Gabriele Flossmann Talks to Eric Pleskow      |
| Natalie Lettner                                      | Gabriele Flossmann                            |
| 12                                                   | 21                                            |
| 102 Homeless in Hollywood: Casting Casablanca | 162 New York, New York                        |
| Warner Bros. and the European Film Exile             | Woody Allen's Jewish Metropolis               |
| Brigitte Mayr und Michael Omasta                     | Daniel Itzkovitz                              |
| 13                                                   | 22                                            |
| 110 Impressions from the Heart of Hollywood:         | 168 Coming Out                                |
| David O. Selznick's Gone with the Wind        | The New Jewish Presence                       |
| Maren Waffenschmid                                   | Danielle Berrin                               |
| 14                                                   | 23                                            |
| 118 Hollywood and the War:                           | 174 Hollywood and the Holocaust (1980s–2000s) |
| The Hesitant Anti-Nazi Propaganda Machine            | A Cinematic History                           |
| Jan-Christopher Horak                                | Leshu Torchin                                 |
| 15                                                   | 24                                            |
| 122 Earthquake in California                         | 178 "No Jews were harmed in the making        |
| Monopolies, Television, and Un-American Activities   | of this movie"                                |
| Natalie Lettner                                      | Jewish Films Today and Tomorrow               |
| 16                                                   | Frank Stern                                   |
| 130 Hollywood and the Holocaust (1940s–1970s)        |                                               |
| An American History                                  |                                               |
| Leshu Torchin                                        |                                               |
| 17                                                   |                                               |
| 136 Transatlantic Film Relations after 1945          |                                               |
| From Americans in Europe to Best Foreign Film        |                                               |
| Gabriele Flossmann and Werner Hanak-Lettner          |                                               |
| 18                                                   |                                               |
| 142 New Hollywood                                    |                                               |
| Deconstruction and Renaissance of the                |                                               |
| American Myth                                        |                                               |
| Natalie Lettner                                      |                                               |

Closing Credits

|     |                       |
|-----|-----------------------|
| 185 | Selected Bibliography |
| 188 | Biographies           |
| 190 | List of Exhibits      |
| 198 | Loans                 |
| 199 | Acknowledgements      |
| 200 | List of Illustrations |
| 201 | Index of Persons      |
| 204 | Index of Films        |